SUPER-FORTS BOMB JAPAN

STATE LIBRARY OF MASSACHUSETTS
JUN 15 1944
BOARD OF PUBLICATION

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—The Army announced today that B-29 super-fortresses of the Army Air Forces bombed Japan today.

No further information was divulged, and there was no indication of which part of Japan was struck nor where the new planes, in combat for the first time, were based.

The text of the brief communique read:

"B-29 super-fortresses of the United States Army Air Forces 20th Bomber Command bombed Japan today."

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, in a statement on the attack made public by the War Department, said that the super-Fortress introduced a new type of offensive against the enemy and "also creates a new problem in the application of military force."

Because of the enormous range and heavy bomb load of this newest bombardment plane, said Marshall, they can strike "from many and remote bases at a single objective."

Their power is so great, the chief of staff continued, that the (American) joint chiefs of staff decided it would be uneconomical to confine the super fortress organization to a single theater, and "these bombers therefore will remain under the centralized control of the joint chiefs of staff with a single commander, General Arnold, acting as their agent in directing their bombing operations throughout the world.

"The planes will be treated as major task forces in the same manner as naval task forces are directed against specific objectives.

"This type of flexible, centralized control recognizes that very long-range bombardment is not a weapon for the air forces alone. Under the joint chiefs of staff, theater commanders will have a voice in its employment, ensuring that miximum effectiveness will be obtained through missions which will contribute directly to the overall strategy for the defeat of the enemies."

It was the second American raid on the Japanese homeland. On April 18, 1942, when American military fortunes were at their lowest, the nation was electrified by word that Tokyo and other Japanese cities had been attacked from the air.

The first announcement then came from the Japanese and it was not until weeks later that it was learned that a force of Mitchell bombers under James H. Doolittle, then a lieutenant-colonel but now a lieutenant-general commanding the Eighth Air Force in Britain, had carried out that adventurous mission.

The Mitchells flew from the aircraft carrier Hornet and after crossing Japan flew on to the continent. One landed in eastern Siberia, the others in China.

Some of them came down in Japanese-held territory and a few of the fliers were taken captive. Months later the Japanese themselves made it known that some of these prisoners had been executed.

Yanks Land In Marianas

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

A large-scale landing assault by United States forces in the Marianas Islands, 1500 miles from Tokyo, was reported by the Japanese today.

The enemy account of the assault by combat forces said to have landed from a score of transports in the wake of a shattering bombardment by United States warships was given in a wireless transmission by the Domei Agency.

"Heavy fighting is going on between Japanese units and enemy forces which attempted to land on Saipan island," the Japanese said.

The Domei description of the assault, as yet unconfirmed by official United States quarters, was recorded by both the FCC and Reuter's (British) News Agency monitors.

The Japs claimed that one attempted landing on Saipan island had been frustrated by the Nipponese garrison, adding, however, that another landing had been attempted on "Marianas Harbor" and that the Japanese were engaged in conflict with the "invaders."

PLANES BLAST ISLANDS

The Americans made their way toward shore from 20 transports aboard some 70 landing barges and 20 to 30 special barges, Domei said.

The islands since last Saturday had been subjected to terrific aerial onslaughts by American carrier-based planes, and headquarters of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in Pearl Harbor yesterday that battleships, cruisers and destroyers had opened up their big guns against Saipan and Tinian islands in the Marianas group.

The latest communique from the admiral's headquarters announced that battleships, cruisers and destroyers unlimbered their big rifles on Tinian and Saipan islands Monday, opening the fourth blistering day of attack on the enemy bases in the Marianas.

THUNDEROUS SHELLING

A second task force in more northerly waters poured thunderous shell fire against Japanese installations on Matsuwa island in the central Kuriles, less than 600 miles from Emperor Hirohito's bewildered homeland.

Carrier planes operating with this powerful naval force, simultaneously struck Shimushu and Paramushiru in the northern Kuriles, both of which enemy bases had been attacked several times previously during recent weeks by American bombers based in the Aleutians.

The bold four-day-old onslaught in the Marianas began Saturday with swarms of United States carrier planes and warships hounding a vast expanse of isle-dotted ocean for three days without challenge from the imperial Nipponese navy.

Cherbourg Stab Gains

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 15 (AP) — American troops have surged powerfully ahead in their stab into the Cherbourg neck, headquarters announced today, and Berlin reported less than six miles separated the spearhead from the last west coast communications linking Cherbourg with France.

The gains were hammered out in spite of furious counterattacks all along the 100-mile invasion front into which the Germans had thrown about 20 divisions and 600 tanks.

Headquarters, confirming that American infantry and paratroops, supported by tanks, had scored gains west of Carentan, said Allied soldiers weer holding firm everywhere despite the massive nature of the German counterstroke and weer inflicting heavy losses.

This was after it was acknowledged the British at the eastern end of the line had been forced to give up Troarn, their anchor nine miles east of Caen, and Villers-Bocage, one of their two advance points 15 miles southwest of Caen.

K. O. 17 NAZI TANKS

Further heavy counter-attacks in the Villers-Bocage area were turned back yesterday, headquarters said, and the British were still secure in their hold on Caumont, their other most advanced point, 20 miles southwest of Caen.

Seventeen German tanks, including eight 60-ton Tigers, were knocked out in the firce armored battling yesterday, headquarters said. The other eight tanks were Panthers armed with 75 mm. guns. At the western end of the line, the Americans first moved forward on a nine-mile front to the Les Sablons-Baupte area, south of Ste. Mere Eglise and seven miles from high ground overlooking La Haye du Puits on the west coast and rail line to Cherbourg.

The Berlin radio commentator, Ludwig Sertorius, reported they gained another 3½ miles to the west, reaching Pretot, less than six miles from La Haye du Puits.

The Americans also fought back into Montebourg, 14 miles from Cherbourg and headquarters said street fighting was in progress. But the fighting there was fluid, and the Germans in mid-afternoon claimed they again held the town.

NAZIS ADMIT CLIMAX

American troops also were engaded in heavy fighting in the Pont L'Abbe area, four miles north of Pretot, and along the road from Montebourg to Quineville.

The heavy nature of the fighting was plainly indicated by the German high command, which said the battle is "approaching a climax" and growing more violent every day with the Allies hitting hard in all directions to enlarge their bridgehead.

The German communique added: "Among salvoes of heaviest naval guns, incessant air attacks and with freshly brought up infantry and tank forces being thrown into action on both sides, the battle is approaching a climax."

The American advance was on a nine-mile front westward from Carentan toward high ground controlling the last German roads leading to Cherbourg.

The Yankees plunged to the Les Sablons-Baupte area, south of Ste. Mere Eglise and west of Carentan.

Toward the tip of the peninsula hand-to-hand fighting surged between Germans and troops of the FRANCE—American forces today fought heavy, tank-supported Nazi counter-attacks in the Montebourg area and repulsed a fierce enemy attack on Carentan. At the other end of the Allied lines, British-Canadian troops held against Nazi drives in the Tilly-Caen-Troarn area. Slight Allied gains were reported in the push toward St. Lo . . . but advance patrols gave ground in the Caumont and Villers-Bocage sectors.

Reds Push Finns On Viipuri Road

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, June 15 (AP)—The Red Army hurled the Finns across an important but unnamed river today as it pressed toward Viipuri against an enemy throwing up what Red Star described as "a multitude of obstacles.

All dispatches stressed difficult fighting conditions faced by Col. Gen. Govorov's troops. In numerous places the Russians were employing special squads to pierce dense forests and build highways.

There were many indications Finnish resistance was stiffening and the Soviets had come up against the main Finnish defenses, but none the Finns had been able to stop the Red army.

Falling back towards Viipuri, the Finns chopped down hundreds of firs across the highway and railroad line.

Communique—No. 19

On all parts of the front Allied forces continue to carry the fight to the enemy.

The heaviest fighting has taken place in the Carentan, Montebourg and Caen areas.

Airborne troops have successfully beaten off attempts made by the Germans to retake Carentan and are again pushing southward from the town.

They have also advanced further to the west in the Les Sablons-Baupte vicinity.

Heavy armored attacks and counter-attacks persist in the Caen-Tilly Sur Seulles area.

The development of the beaches is making good progress, and the unloading of troops and stores steadily is increasing.

Allied Air Forces continued their attacks yesterday afternoon and evening on communications and road convoys in the Cherbourg peninsula in support of our ground forces.

Rail traffic was also bombed, and in a surprise attack on the enemy airfield at Le Mans about a dozen enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground.

Before dusk, heavy night bombers with fighter escort attacked E-boats and the dockside of Le Havre.

During the night they bombed railway centers at Douai, Cambrai and St. Pol and troop concentrations at Evrecy and Auney-Sur-Oden.

Five bombers are missing from these operations.

Light bombers made night attacks on enemy convoys and concentrations moving on roads toward the battle area.

Reports as yet incomplete show that 17 enemy aircraft were destroyed in air combat since noon yesterday.

Fourteen of our fighters are missing.

Seven more enemy aircraft were shot down over Normandy during the night.

Man Seized in Lost Girl Hunt

Answering a mysterious telephone call, state detectives rushed to a Scituate Harbor restaurant shortly before 2 p. m. today and took into custody a man they said fits the "red-headed stranger" description of a suspect in the Frances McGrath disappearance.

The action climazed five days of search for a man whose eccentric manner, colorful clothes and strange actions were reported by at least six persons.

Police would not disclose the name of the man they took to the station today. He was identified merely as a new summer resident.

Officers were sent out to bring in persons who had occasion to report the "red-headed" stranger's movements.

One of these was a youth who reported the man because he persistently followed a group of boys and girls.

QUESTIONING OF PUPILS

While the man in custody was being asked to account for his movements Saturday night, time of the McGrath girl's disappearance, Scituate school officials launched a veritable quiz program of their own.

Class by class, children will be asked to remember whether they observed, heard or experienced anything unusual shortly before or soon after the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McGrath vanished last Saturday night.

They will be instructed to tell their teachers. The information will be passed on to Police Chief Michael Stewart and State detectives, to be weighed and pooled.

The high school seniors have graduated but all other pupils are available for questioning.

Much hope is pinned on results in the Hathaway and Jenkins Grammar Schools, where boys and girls of Frances' age attend.

The undertaking was decided upon on the theory that some girl or boy unknowingly possesses a clue which would lead to others and perhaps result in a channel of investigation not yet explored.

It might be some small thing, an incident passed off at the time of occurrence, but now significant because of the tragedy suffered by the McGraths.

"Perhaps it will yield nothing," said Principal Parkhurst, "but we believe it well worth trying."

MANY WRITE PARENTS

Frances, being a summer resident, did not go to school in Scituate, but many of the children knew her.

Throughout the East Frances McGrath's disappearance has stirred sympathy for the parents and their five other children.

Today Mrs. McGrath received

Heavies Sweep on

By GLADWIN HILL

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 15 (AP)—Between 1000 and 2000 American Fortresses and Liberators and escorting fighters swept over France this morning, bombing airplane plants, airfields and railroad facilities in a dozen places.

Berlin radio reported an attack on industrial Hannover in Germany while lighter Allied warplanes from bases in Normandy and Britain continued their widespread support campaign in a smashing follow-up to an 1100-bomber operation overnight.

As part of the latter operation several hundred Lancasters blasted E-boat pens at Le Havre with sixton "factory busters" in daylight.

Twenty-eight hundred tons of explosives were dropped on La Havre in two attacks, the first, just before dusk, being the RAF's heaviest daylight bombardment of the war and its first high altitude daylight precision effort.

Targets of the American "heavies" today ranged from Nantes, La Poisonniere and Angouleme to Beauvais, La Frilliere and Bordeaux.

The daughter of ex-Boston City Councillor John McGrath was wearing a chartreuse - color suit, a close-fitting brown "beanie" hat with a teather in it, a ribbon under her chin, brown gloves, a white blouse, "loafer" slippers, brown sox and carried a brown cloth purse with a wooden top, when seen last in Scituate.

Frances is about 3 feet 10 inches tall, weighs between 80 and 85 pounds, has deep blue eyes, freckles, dimples and wears her hair in pigtails. She is compactly built and looks a little older than her 10 years. Call City Editor, Liberty 4000.

'Little Mother' Aids in Tragedy

While her parents are giving their entire time to search for Frances McGrath, 19-year-old Marilyn has become a "Little Mother" to the other four children. Anxious to relieve her mother of as much work as possible, Marilyn has taken entire charge of her sisters, preparing their meals, assisting them with their clothes and answering as best she can the many questions they ask.

In the morning she gets them up and at night puts them to bed, standing by while they say their childish prayers, particularly a prayer for the safety of their missing sister.

Marilyn also attends to all the details concerning the provisioning of their summer home at Scituate and the preparation of meals.

As a result, Mrs. McGrath has been able to devote her entire attention to the hunt for Frances, with no additional worries over the other children.

Boston Trawler Riddled by Sub

By ANNE NEAL

An hour of horror, in which he matched his wits and dexterity against three-inch shells and machine gun slugs rained on his trawler from point-blank range out on the fishing banks, was related today by Capt. James L. Abbott of Park st., Dorchester, as he brought the riddled trawler Lark safely to port.

Abbott, his 74-year-old cook, Daniel Maloney, of Carney st., Medford, and the ship's dog, Rex, 14, were the only others on board during the shelling as the captain had ordered the remaining 25 crew members into dories as soon as the sub was sighted.

Maloney and the dog remained below while the captain dodged from one side of the ship to the other, hiding behind dories and gear as the sub circled the ship, methodically pumping shells and bullets into her hull and rigging.

CREW TAKES TO DORIES

"I thought we were done for and I was saying my prayers," Capt. Abbott recalled today. "But then I thought that, after all, it wasn't any worse than what our boys are getting."

Capt. Abbott sighted the sub shortly after 2 a. m. one day recently as his trawler was moving from one fishing ground to another in the North Atlantic and, mistaking it for a Canadian patrol boat, decided to turn in.

He had just reached his bunk when John Aspell at the wheel recalled him and they identified the craft as a large, unmarked submarine. When a warning shot was fired across his bow, Abbott said, he ordered the crew into dories and instructed them to row at least a quarter-mile from the trawler.

After a 10-minute wait, the sub began to shell the trawler from 300-foot range, apparently in the belief, Abbott said, that the ship had been abandoned by the crew.

RIDDLED BY SHELLS

The hail of shells and machine-gun bullets poured over the ship, peppering the remaining dories with holes, ripping the mast and rigging and slashing her sail. Abbott could identify only the shells and machine-gun bullets but said a third type of weapon, which he could not describe, also was used.

As the lethal hail poured into the port side, Abbott said he would duck to the starboard side. He reversed the procedure when the sub circled to the port side and managed to escape unscratched.

The circling sub passed so close to one dory that it snapped an oar like kindling but no attempt was made to harm the crew in the small boats.

CRAFT KEPT AFLOAT

After the shelling subsided one dory started back to the ship and the sub returned at once and renewed its savage shelling of the ship.

Capt. Abbott resumed his nimble game of tag with death. He ducked into the pilot house but a shell smashed through the window, passed within a foot of his head and shattered the rear wall.

The sub finally submerged after an hour of shelling and Abbott got his riddled vessel under way and picked up the four dories in which the crew had fled.

The ship was leaking badly, but the pumps were manned quickly and these kept the battered ship afloat all the way to port.

There were nine shell holes in her hull when she arrived today and more than 1000 machine-gun bullet holes were counted in her masts, rigging and pilot house.

Capt. Abbot said he could see no markings on the sub, which he described as large and gray. Some of the crew members, however, claimed they saw swastika markings on some of the spent slugs which were found on the trawler after the shelling.

In addition to Capt. Abbott, Maloney and Aspell, who is purser and a Dorchester resident, the Coast Guard listed the following men as the Lark's crew:

Frank Boudreau, 44, Swampscott, engineer, and Seamen Wilfred MacKenzie, 51, Saugus; Henry Muise, 64, Malden; Fred Ryan, 50, South Boston; Emile Boudreau, 58, Yarmouth, N. The biggest current land battle of the Pacific war centered today at Changsha in central China, with Chungking reporting Chinese defenders holding off enemy forces attacking the city from three sides. The Japanese have thrown 200,000 men into the battle, Chungking said.

Fifth 79 Miles Beyond Rome

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ROME, June 15 (AP)—Allied troops, breaking stiffening German resistance, have made a general advance all along their line in Italy taking Orvieto, Aquila and Narni and pushing on.

Orvieto is 57 miles northeast of Rome; Narni, 41 miles north, and Aquila, 54 miles northwest. Along the west coast the Fifth Army has advanced 79 miles beyond Rome.

As one Eighth Army column entered Orvieto, an important road junction northeast of Lake Bolsena, another reached the outskirts of Terni, but was delayed by a blown bridge and a German counter-attack.

In the Lake Bolsena area French troops continued to advance and the Americans reached Pitigliano, 11 miles west of the northern end of the lake.

F. D. Outlines Postwar Peace

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WASHINGTON, June 15 (INS)—President Roosevelt today outlined his tentative blue print for a postwar world organization of nations to preserve peace.

The plan calls for creation of an international council representing the four major Allied nations and a "suitable number of other nations."

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed also there would be an international court of justice to deal primarily with legal disputes between nations.

This world council would be elected annually by representatives of all participating nations.

The proposal, as outlined by the President, was made public after a conference this morning between the President and his post-war policy committee.

THOSE AT CONFERENCE

At the conference were Secretary Hull, Under-Secretary Edward R. Stettinius Jr., Dr. Isaiah Bowman, Presidential adviser, Leo Pasvolsky, State Department expert on postwar affairs and Norman Davis, head of the American Red Cross.

In his statement the President said:

"The purpose of the organization would be to maintain peace and security and to assist the creation, through international cooperation, of conditions of stability and well being necessary for peaceful and friendly relations among nations.

"Accordingly, it is our thought that the organization would be a fully representative body with broad responsibilities for promoting and facilitating international co-operation, through such agencies as may be found necessary, to consider and deal with the problems of world relations.

AN INTERNATIONAL COURT

"The council would concern itself with the peaceful settlement of international disputes and with the prevention of threats to the peace or breaches of the peace.

"There would also be an international court of justice to deal primarily with justifiable disputes.

"We are not thinking of a superstate with its own police force and other paraphernalia of coercive power. We are seeking effective agreement and arrangements through which the nations would maintain according to their capacities adequate forces to meet the needs of preventing war and of making impossible deliberate preparation for war and to have such forces available for joint action when necessary.

"All this, of course, will become possile once our present enemies are defeated and effective arrangements are made to prevent them from making war again."

DeGaulle Drafts French Set-Up

LONDON, June 15 (AP)—The French Committee of National Liberation reported that Gen. Charles de Gaulle during his trip to the Normandy beachhead yesterday had "left everywhere instructions regarding resumption of civil administration, organization of supplies and public relief."

The committee said De Gaulle had been given a "most moving demonstration of courage and devotion by the people."

De Gaulle, back in Britain, was said to be planning tentatively to return briefly to Algiers to report to the French consultative assembly on the result of his discussions with the British and with Gen. Eisenhower, before proceeding to America to see President Roosevelt.

The London press hailed his swift trip to the Normandy front with the expressed hope it would help solve the ticklish situation.

Autopsy on Noxon Baby Illegal, Defense Charges

By PAULINE WARREN

PITTSFIELD, June 15—Contending the autopsy on 6-months-old Lawrence Noxon was "illegal," Joseph B. Ely, chief copnsel for John F. Noxon, accused Dr. Alan R. Moritz today of being "an agent of the prosecution" in an unprecedented court room scene which delayed the trial an hour.

Dr. Moritz, pathologist for the Massachusetts Committee of Public Safety, performed the autopsy. He spent 45 minutes giving qualifications as an expert, when Ely interrupted Dist.-Atty. Alberti's examination to challenge Dr. Moritz' qualification as a witness.

Presiding Judge Pinanski sent the jury out while a bench conference took place. When the jury was called back Ely again interruptedMoritz's testimony to get this objection into the record:

2 "DISCREET" WITNESSES

"The law says (Chapteh 38 Section 6, General Laws) that at an autopsy there should be two "discreet," witness parties with no connection with the case. In this case all parties present were pathologists or medical examiners.

"Also the medical examiner cannot delegate his authority to perform an autopsy except in writing, or such writing should come from the district attorney. Dr. Moritz is not medical examiner for Berkshire County and he was not summoned here in writing from the district attorney. Also the autopsy was performed without permission of either parent.

"Theerfore I suggest the defendant's rights we ernot protected, that whole performance was illegal, there was no member of the family present and this Doctor si not qualified to testify on the autopsy as he is an agent of the prosecution."

Alberti then had brought into court two documents secured from district court which he said he was offering in evidence as true copies of the pathological diagnoses performed on the body of Lawrence Swift Noxon and the medical examiner's report signed by Dr. Albert England, medical examiner for Berkshire County.

Judge Pinanski read the signatures on the diagnoses and said they included Dr. England, Dr. Moritz, Dr. Frank Dutra and Dr. John Hughes.

DEFENSE OVERRULED

Ely and Walter Donovan, associate defense counsel, still maintained their objection and Judge Pinanski overruled them with exception noted. The defense then asked that a blanket objection be accepted to every answer witness Moritz would make in his testimony.

The judge again ruled that Dr. Moritz be allowed to testify, and he began his testimony by qualifying that he had performed the autopsy under the supervision of Dr. England.

He then gave a minute description of the burns as he had found them on the Noxon baby.

He said that on the left arm extending from the elbow and running down about 2 inches there was an iregular shaped multiple colored burn.

The flesh was cooked, he said, and from it there extended pairs of parallel lines. Around the whole burn there was a bright red line or groove and the center of the lesion was depressed at least an eighth of an inch, he added.

On the back of the left arm Dr. Moritz stated there was a burn in the shape of a dumbbell with thin red lines connecting the two larger spots.

The right arm had burns like inverted T's, and smaller burns shaped like exclamation points. The flesh on this arm also had a cooked appearance, he stated.

Mrs. Heinz Often Beat Child, Housekeeper Tells Court

LOS ANGELES, June 15 (AP)—A former housekeeper in the Hartford, Ct., home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford S. Heinz, Jr., has testified their 4-year-old son consistently felt his mother's temper when he refused to eat his noon meal.

Mrs. Sophia H. Kemp, 59, a witness in Heinz' suit against Mrs. Elizabeth Bald Heinz, for custody of the child, Clifford III, told the court:

Mrs. Heinz

"Mrs. Heinz always prepared his (the child's) meals and they were of good food, too. Then she would put him in his high chair, none too gently and when he would not eat she would slap him."

Mrs. Kemp testified she finally resigned because she could not bear the "inhuman treatment" she said was accorded the child by its mother.

"His little face was blue from her slapping him," the witness said. "She would pull the child from the chair, throw it to the floor and say: 'I hate you.'"

Albert Hitchen, a servant who said he attends Clifford III when Mrs. Heinz visits her son at the Beverly Hills home of Heinz' mother, Mrs. Sara MacLean, testified that the child shows no affection for his mother but scratches and swears at her, and calls her "bad mommy" during these meetings.

Mrs. Bouvier's Release Delayed

Court routine probably will delay until Monday the reunion of Mrs. Beatrice Bouvier, 30, of Ware with her three sons, the youngest of whom was born 18 months ago, the day after the shotgun death of her husband.

Corrections Commr. Arthur T. Lyman said today that time probably would be required before Mrs. Bouvier could be given her freedom in the same Franklin county courtroom at Greenfield where she was convicted of manslaughter in April, 1943, in the death of her husband, Rudolph.

He explained that yesterday's decision of the full bench of the supreme court, which set aside her conviction, must be remanded to the Franklin court and a writ of habeas corpus issued there to effect her release from the reformatory.

She will be brought to the courthouse at Greenfield, and, after the records have been changed with the insertion of the supreme court decision, she will be given her freedom.

Surprise Thrust Opens Mogaung Fight

KANDY, Ceylon, June 15 (AP)—The battle for the North Burma town of Mogaung was joined today, with Chindits and a jungle force under Brig. "Mad Mike" Calvert striking by surprise from the east, aided by maximum American bomber and fighter support.

Capturing the neighboring villages of Pina-Nmi and Mohaung, the force took an ammunition dump estimated to hold 200 railway carloads.

Lt. Col. Hannon Home on Leave

Lt. Col. Albert J. Hannon of Bartley st., Wakefield, a member of the Americal Division, has arrived home after 29 months' service in the Southwest Pacific. He participated in the battles of Guadalcanal and Bougainville.

Decorated with the Silver Star by direction of President Roosevelt in 1942 following action at Guadalcanal when he led a counter attack on Japanese forces that had broken through American lines, Lt. Col. Hannon arrived home recently on a 15-day leave. He will report to Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas.

A graduate of Wakefield High School and the Massachusetts Military Academy, Lt. Col. Hannon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hannon, Jordan rd., Franklin, and is married to the former Viola Widdell of Stoneham.

Kelly's Name Off Ballot Again

Justice Henry T. Lummus of the State Supreme Court today allowed an appeal to the full bench from his decision of yesterday ordering the Secretary of State to place the name of Francis E. Kelly on the ballot as candidate for the Democratic nomination for Attorney-General.

Asst. Atty.-Gen. Roger Clapp, who took exception to Justice Lummus' previous ruling, argued that under a statute passed at the last session of the Legislature an appeal can be taken from the final decree of judgment of a single justice to the full bench of the State Supreme Court.

Justice Lummus on petition of Kelly yesterday issued a writ of mandamus ordering Sec. of State Frederic W. Cook to include Kelly's name on the Democratic primary ballot. At the same time he issued a writ of certiorari quashing the action of the Ballot Law Commission.

The Ballot Law Commission had ordered Kelly's name stricken from the primary ballot as a result of a protest against Kelly's papers brought by Francis D. Harrigan, also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general, who contended that the papers were improperly signed.

Prof. Frank L. Simpson, attorney for Kelly, filed a motion with Lummus today requesting that the decision be allowed to stand pending the appeal to the full bench, and further that Sec. of State Cook be instructed to continue printing Kelly's name on the ballot until the full bench handed down a decision.

Justice Lummus denied Simpson's motion with the notation that it had been denied "on grounds that as a matter of law I have no power to grant it."

Following Lummus' decision attorneys involved said they will go into conference immediately with Chief Justice Fred T. Field of the Supreme Court asking that a special session of that court be held immediately to decide the issue.

Secretary of State Cook said that the printing of the Democratic primary ballot has been suspended temporarily.

SOMEWHERE AT SEA—There are 15 officers and 50 enlisted men of the Army Transportation Corps aboard ship.

In the group are two officers and four seamen from the Greater Boston area. They are Lt. Roger Ormberg, Lt. Louis Blais, Jr., Nick Krochmal, Alfred Charest, Jr., George Wargo and Bob Brochu.

Lt. Olmberg lived at 557 Dudley st., Dorchester, with his mother, Alice, and sister, Mabel, before he married Gertrude Rough. Now he lives at 27 Cummings ave., Wollaston.

He is a six-foot 200-pounder who gets a lot of fun out of life. He is one of the merriest men aboard, and tenors a maritime quartet that is loud, if not good.

AIKS ABOUT LAKE

"I love every part of it," he confessed. "Do you work on the same paper as Austen Lake? Ask him if he remembers me. I used to be a lifeguard at his beach in Merrymount."

Lt. Ormberg attended Mechanic Arts and M. I. T., worked as a mechanical engineer before enlisting. He wants to be remembered to Maj. Eddie Lennon of the Globe, Jim Healey and Joe McGuiness of Dorchester and Jack McDermott of Hough's Neck.

Lt. Blais gives his parents' home at 33 Brattle st., Cambridge, as his home address, because his wife, the former Evelyn Cook of Wareham and Cambridge, is doing publicity for the New Haven Railroad, and is living down there.

Lt. Blais graduated from Cambridge Latin in '31, and studied Diesel engineering at Tech. He was in the construction business and spent seven months in the British Isles before the U. S. entered the war. He was commissioned last September and, like Lt. Ormberg, is listed as a chief engineer in the ATC. "Tell the folks everything's just dandy," he said.

GET USED TO BOMBS

Nick Krochmal graduated from Peabody High in 1940, celebrated his 22nd birthday on May 11, yet has visited South America and has been bombed in the Mediterranean since he enlisted Nov. 24, 1941. "You get used to the bombing," he said calmly.

"I like this work when I'm on U. S. ships," he said, "but I'd die if I had to keep sailing with the British. I can't get used to their cooking. Boy, what I'd give for a piece of apple pie."

Nick's old gang is all in the service. "I think Bob Chenry is stationed at Squantum," he went on. "If he is, send him my best, will you? Bob's one of five brothers in the service. And please remember me to Mr. Barry (Arthur J.), principal of Peabody High. He helped me a lot in school."

18 AIR RAIDS

Alfred Charest, Jr., of 7 Kingston st., Lawrence, enlisted with his father on June 3, 1942, at the Appraisers' Stores on Atlantic ave. He's only 19, but has been through a lot, being with the first invasion wave in North Africa and subjected to 18 air raids at Bizerte alone.

George Wargo of 131 Caroline st., Bridgeport, Ct., is only 21, but is lovesick and admits it. "I'm engaged to Julia Soltis, 182 Dover st., Stratford, Ct., and please send her this message: 'I'm always thinking of you. I miss you a lot. I can't wait to get back and be married.'" And to his mother, Margaret, sisters Marion, 17, and Alice, six, he says: "Everything's O. K. Don't worry about me. I'll come through all right."

Bob Brochu lives at 240 Central ave., Dover, N. H., worked in the First National Stores and Dunlop Tire there, before moving to Portsmouth Navy Yard, where he clerked for 11 months. He's seen a lot of the world for a chap who's been in the service only 13 months. He's visited Casablanca, Oran, Bizerte and Tunis, though he wasn't there at invasion time. And he's only 20!

Like Wargo, Brochu is in love. His sweetheart is Marguerite Gagne of 38 River st., Rochester, N. H.

"Tell her the thing I want most in the world is a picture of her in a bathing suit," he said. "Tell her I love her as much as ever, more if that's possible. Tell my mother (Anna) I like my job and I'm in good health, though I could stand a couple of her boiled dinners."

For two and a half years in the Central Pacific the airman said he dreamed continually of fresh strawberries.

"So when I returned, I went on a three-day berry-eating marathon," he explained. "It was worth it."

Bond Sales to Individuals Up

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—The Fifth War Loan drive passed 8 per cent of the goal of individual sales during its second day.

Reported purchases through Tuesday night were $484,000,000—toward the $6,000,000,000 goal, the Treasury announced.

The Treasury said war bonds now buy more and better war equipment than they did a year ago. For example:

A heavy bomber, listed at $500,000 a year ago, now costs $250,000.

A fighter plane, which cost $150,000 last year, now is listed at $50,000. A 4000-pound blockbuster used to cost $872, now is $778. A Garand rifle was $80 a year ago, now $35.

But the price of Army mules has gone up. The average a year ago was $190. Now it's $225.

State Is Ahead of Schedule In 5th War Loan Campaign

The Fifth War Loan drive, spurred by the sacrifices of invasion forces, soared ahead of schedule throughout Massachusetts today but officials warned that there can be no lag right up to the July 8 deadline.

Subscription figures are not yet available, but it is known the drive is several days ahead of the pace maintained last winter in the Fourth War Loan campaign.

"Massachusetts citizens seem to appreciate the deeds of their fighting men," the war finance committee explained. "The E type bond is having a big sale, but this does not mean quotas will be reached easily. After all, this drive is the largest of all the war loans and every citizen in the state has a double job.

"They must buy bonds and they must sell bonds, especially if the goal of $828,000,000 is to be met."

House-to-house canvasses are under way in scores of communities, with excellent results reported from Brookline, and the Dorchester-Mattapan district, also Chelsea, which has raised $227,000 in E bond sales during the first three days.

The combat team of four fighting men, assigned to spur the drive here, toured western Massachusetts today.

They are Lt. Fred Nason, Jr., of Boston, AAF; Cpl. Thomas E. Powers of Springfield, USMC; AR 2-c John Nevins, USN, and CPO John A. Dunlop, USCG.

Urges Sounder Social Security

Sound and reasonable social security laws should be urged by industrial employers, Henry I. Harriman, vice-chairman of the New England Power Ass'n, said today in a speech before the executives club of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The universality of the demand for all-inclusive social security laws has surprised American employers, Harriman, a delegate to the International Labor Organization in Philadelphia last month, told his audience.

In outlining his ideas, Harriman advocated payment of costs each year by assessments made in the same year. He pointed out the social security in Holland and Belgium, where payments were made from reserves, has been swept away in the chaos of war and no worker can expect post-war returns from money paid in before occupation of his homeland.

U. S. Must Be Strong At Home--Bricker

By the Associated Press

Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, fresh from a talk with President Roosevelt, assembled a party committee in Chicago today to arrange for the July 19 Chicago convention at which the President can have another nomination for the taking.

Whether Hannegan brought word as to how the President feels about it was not disclosed.

He left the White House yesterday with a "no comment" rejoinder to a reporter who inquired whether he sticks by his predictions that the President will accept nomination for 16 years in the White House.

Hannegan and the arrangements committeemen busied themselves with selection of a keynote speaker and recommendation of a convention chairman.

Other political developments:

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio dined in Washington at a private diner with Republican first termers in the House. Those attending said Bricker told them the United States must play a strong role internationally but first "we must be strong at home."

Dewey Reported Ready to Accept

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Persistent reports from sources close to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, but not publicly confirmed, insisted today he is prepared for a swift trip to Chicago to accept an expected Republican presidential nomination.

The same sources declared Dewey is drafting a speech of acceptance while enjoying a ten-day vacation at his farm near Pawling.

Although direct confirmation is lacking, it is reported reliably that Dewey has made Pullman reservations to permit a quick trip to the Convention, which begins June 26.

'Global Thinkers' Aim Curb On Smoking, Drinking Girls

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 15 (AP)—Global Thinkers, Inc., hopes to beam to the world its appeal for "a return to finer femininity so that our men won't come home from the battlefronts to a lot of drunken, immoral women."

The year-old organization's fight against smoking and drinking among women was outlined today by Miss Grace L. Donaldson of St. Petersburg, Fla., national director.

"We are not reformers, we do not carry hatchets, and we have no quarrel with anyone," she said. "Our aim is to educate women to think themselves into a new and better way of life. It's a new approach to an old problem."

Mrs. Myrtle McLean Banister of Nashville, founder, defined "finer femininity" as "abstaining from drinking and smoking, getting out of slacks, growing up in modesty, and generally raising moral standards from the mire where they've begun to sink."

During the Month of June

there will be more Ice Cream for you to enjoy!

As you may have read in your newspaper, you will be able to buy more ice cream during June than you have for many a long month. We must warn you, however, that this increase in supply is temporary and that another shortage will develop later this summer, when milk production drops and less milk and cream can be alloted for making ice cream.

Ice Cream is NUTRITIOUS as well as delicious

Most people like ice cream just because it's so refreshing and so satisfying, but it's also good to know that this summertime favorite is packed with health-guarding, energy-producing vitamins and minerals. It's one of the "basic" foods recommended by the government's Wartime Nutrition Program!

Stop in at your nearest ice cream dealer's today and take home a quart of America's favorite dairy food. It's the best possible way to announce the good news to your family that at present there's a larger supply of the ice cream they all like so much!

BACK THE INVASION - BUY more WAR BONDS

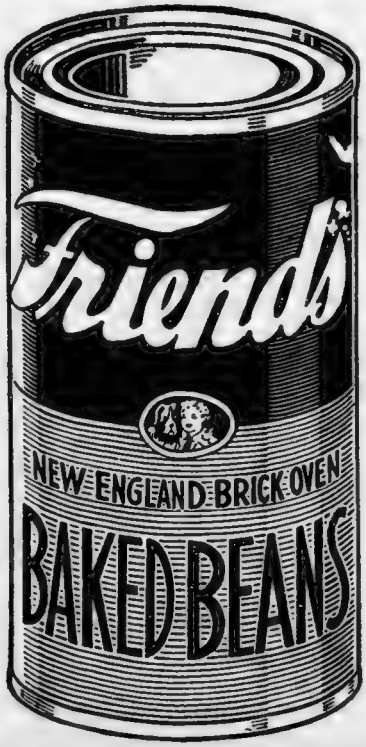
Now You Can Forget Substitutes --- Insist on New England's Favorite



100 Stores Pushing INVASION SHOW

More than 100 Boston department and specialty stores today gave the right of way to War Bond sales over all other business and concentrated their forces on the big INVASION BOND SHOW July 4 in Charles River basin.

Top executives right down the line to janitors all have a part to play and all employes were doing their utmost to make the Fifth War Loan drive a success.

In a cooperative effort never before witnessed by the city's many merchants, the facilities of the various establishments and their employes have been welded into one machine. Its sole goal is reaching the Greater Boston quota of $16,000,000 in sales.

Big department stores submerged their opportunities to shine by being the first to suggest that all members of the Boston Retail Trade Board join in a united contribution to the national effort.

Dollars were sought rather than any firm's glory or prestige. Stores, large and small, became a Fighting Bond Battalion. Each store furnished Secretary R. A. Johnston of the Boston Retail Trade Board with the total number of employes on its payroll, between June 5 and June 10, in order to establish a basis for computation of sales per employe.

A contest was arranged and is acting as a stimulant. Stores selling the largest number of bonds will be awarded prizes.

Stores Reminded of Paper Drive

Neighborhood stores throughout Greater Boston today were urged to clean house and have waste paper collections ready for the June collection next week.

It was announced that for the first time this year waste paper collections throughout the country have averaged but 500,000 tons a month, a monthly shortage of 87,000 tons.

Among the latest contributions were five tons of old order slips donated by H. P. Hood & Sons milk company and 10 tons of waste paper dug from the World War I files at the Watertown arsenal.

Shameful Contrast

A SAGACIOUS reader has sent us a picture torn from a recent edition of the American.

The picture shows the bodies of some of our heroic sons killed in the initial assault on Hitler's European fortress.

Temporarily abandoned by their comrades who pushed forward to meet the enemy, the unfortunate youngsters lie where they fell, and the incoming tide threatens to engulf them.

To this grim picture, the reader attached a news story clipped from a later edition of the American.

The news story reports that comfortable, safe people here at home are stealing two million, five hundred thousand gallons of gasoline daily through the black market.

The contrast between the conduct of those who are dying for victory in this war and that of those who will stoop to a particularly vicious form of larceny to escape the smallest kind of sacrifice is shameful and shocking.

When the veterans of this war come home, with the recollection of their martyred buddies topmost in their minds, these black market operators and their patrons may find life anything but comfortable.

A City Pauses for Prayer

PITTSBURGH, Pa., has set an inspiring example of wartime behavior which other municipalities would do well to follow.

Each morning, as long as the invasion of Europe continues, all Pittsburgh residents will pause for prayer at 11 o'clock.

The sponsor of the plan, which was adopted unanimously by the City Council, said:

"If any of us are too bashful to rise or bow our heads or otherwise make outward expression, we are entirely at liberty to think a prayer inside."

Here, surely, is something that should appeal powerfully to every person who yearns for peace and the early home-coming of his loved ones.

Let us adopt it.

Relief for Taxpayers

ONLY ninety-five students will enter the September class of Boston Teachers' College.

The scant enrollment has not been officially explained, but it is generally attributed to the war.

However, the pertinent question is:

Should the heavily-taxed people of Boston continue to maintain an expensive educational institution which can hardly be called attractive to youth?

Perhaps the ninety-five new students and the more advanced ones in the Teachers' College could be divided among our splendid Boston colleges and universities.

That would be helpful to the privately endowed schools.

And it would probably be hailed as a great relief measure by the hard-pressed property owners who are paying the City of Boston's bills.

Nation Honors Doughboy

THIS is the doughboy's own day. All over the country millions of grateful Americans salute the men in the infantry who are playing such a conspicuously important part in this war.

It would be hard to find a better or more timely observance.

The doughboy may not be so colorful as his buddies in the newer branches of the fighting forces, but he has one of the biggest and hardest jobs of all to do, and he is doing it most commendably in France and wherever Old Glory flies.

Do not let the day pass without a prayer for the doughboy's safety.

And resolve to support and sustain him by the purchase of at least one War Bond.

Washington Scene . . By George Dixon

(Distributed by King Features Synd. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited.)

WASHINGTON, June 15—A terrible attack of nostalgia came over me last night. I was sneaking through the lobby of the Shoreham Hotel, trying to dodge politicians, when I ran into Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees.

I used to travel with McCarthy's team. This, of course, was before I went insane.

My mind snapped after an unbearably hot afternoon in St. Louis when we were playing the Browns. It was a double-header but the park was not crowded. In fact, a good run-of-the-mill reporter could have gotten the name, address and telephone number of every cash customer in 20 minutes.

A pitiably weak ball was hit to right, but the fielder fumbled it all over the place. That night the fumbler cornered me in the hotel.

"That was a clean hit!" he bellowed—although I was not the official scorer. "That was mean to call it an error. The ball almost tore my glove off'n me. Are all you sports writers nuts?"

"Not all!" I shrieked. "But one is going to be right now! Yow—oo—oo!"

DISCOVERING what had happened, the editor for whom I worked—a sympathetic and erudite fellow—said:

"Poor old Dixon has cracked up at last. There is only one thing left to do. Leave us make him a Washington correspondent!"

Anyway, I hadn't seen McCarthy since. It was so good to see him I could hardly refrain from asking him to autograph a shortstop.

I wanted to talk baseball, which used to be a subject McCarthy never tried to avoid. But something was wrong. He wanted to talk politics and Washington.

"How are you fixed for pitchers?" I asked, this always having been considered a sound approach.

"All right, I guess," said McCarthy. "How is Roosevelt?"

"All right, I guess," I answered. "Thanks for asking. I guess it's pretty hard to get pitchers?"

"I guess it is," he agreed. "Tell me, what are they saying here about the election?"

"Quite a lot," I said. "From what I can gather from the Texas League there is a movement to have the election played off in the House of Representatives—the fellow winning four out of seven to be crowned President."

"That so?" said McCarthy. "I hadn't heard of it. Sounds like a good idea though."

McCARTHY WANTED to know if I met many interesting people hereabouts.

"Not so interesting as Eddie Brannick and Horace Stoneham," I said. "Oh, I forgot—they are with the Giants!"

"Why, so they are!" said McCarthy. "Small world, isn't it?"

McCarthy inquired how I was getting along with Archibald MacLeish, librarian of Congress.

"You must like him a lot the way you are always plugging him," he said. "That library of Congress must be an interesting place. I guess they have a lot of books there?"

"Dozens," I said. "I haven't begun to read them all."

"I'm sure you haven't," agreed McCarthy. "Do you have a pass for there?"

"I have a season pass," I said. "It is good for everything except night games and doubleheaders."

WITH McCARTHY were three eminent sports writers, Charles Segar, Rud Rennie, and John Drebinger. Drebinger is outstanding because he is the author of the most baffling remark ever made by man.

Coming North from spring training one year, the team threw a party. Many of the wives were present; also a very sprightly widow, who was admired by one and all.

Drebinger is a mite hard of hearing, and also labors under the delusion that the only person who can hear him is the one he is directly addressing.

The party got very loud. Drebinger began to recount an episode to Richards Vidmer, now a colonel in the Army. As the noise mounted, Drebinger's voice unconsciously mounted with it.

Just then, came one of those unaccountable lulls that take place at every social gathering. But Debringer was unaware of the change. In the dead silence he bellowed:

"And—in the confusion—I kissed the widow!"

So far as I know, Drebinger has never explained to another soul what the confusion was. For some reason it is a subject he avoids.

HOMER DODGE, the well-known Washington philosopher, yesterday delivered himself of the following observation:

"The trouble with Vice-President Wallace is that the underdog has got him on a leash!"

LITTLE CAFE: Have always enjoyed going to "Little Cafe" type French restaurants in this country but when the proprietor and the waiters start patting on that "M'sieur and Madame" line of conversation it can be very annoying. At one little French restaurant the proprietor profusely thanks the departing guests and kisses the hand of the female members of the party. Why don't they have the lady cashier or the hatcheck girl kiss the male customers goodnight? There's an idea for a little cafe owner. It might build quite an added attraction. That reminds me, what became of Fifi D'Orsay? Whenever she saw a newspaperman she said: "'Allo! Beeg boy!" And promptly kissed him.

know about your town, but as a student of Brooklyn history, I know juvenile delinquency was widespread in that city 40 or more years ago. At that time the younger set of Brooklyn's Bedford section went in for some very wild living. What was going on was brought forcibly to public attention when some high school students became involved in a murder case. The accused young woman was acquitted, but the court proceedings ripped the lid off the state of affairs in Brooklyn as to juvenile delinquency.

Cherio was not an astrologer but a palmist.

PLEASE NOTE: What is the advantage of being a hostess rather than a waitress? Certainly not the financial angle. Waitresses make two or three times as much as hostesses. That, of course, is as it should be. It takes stamina, patience, intelligence and a sense of humor to be a waitress. All a hostess needs is to be slightly statuesque, have a permanent toothy smile and be able to carry menu cards gracefully.

BRIDES: Gags about the bewildered brides in the kitchen continue. Fact is most brides know their way about the kitchen. Is interesting to note girls who have been in business before marriage usually make the most intelligent cooks and housekeepers. Home-trained girls are too much influenced by their mothers' ideas on cooking. The business girls who have lived alone understand diet and efficient kitchen management. How was your bride in the kitchen the first year? What are your memories of her first dinner? How about the first dinner when you had guests?

HOLLYWOOD, June 15—Skippy Homeier, the marvelous child actor who really had the star part on the stage in "Tomorrow the World," will make the movie for Lester Cowan. The deal was made with Louis B. Lester Cowan was filled with brotherly love when he told me about Skippy today. He said: "Don't tell me the major companies aren't good to the independents. Why, Paramount loaned me Betty Field, and now M-G-M, Skippy." With Fredric March and Agnes Moorehead in the other top roles, well, Lester was ready to celebrate.

IF ANDRE DAVEN had snagged the leading glamour girl of Hollywood for "Nob Hill" he couldn't be more pleased over getting little Peggy Ann Garner for his picture. I don't blame him, for the more I see of this youngster on the screen and working on the set of the "tree" that grows-you-know-where, the more I am convinced she is an amazing little actress. There has certainly been a lot of casting and re-casting in "Nob Hill." First, Fred MacMurray and Merle Oberon were named for it, but now the lineup reads George Raft and Lynn Bari.

I asked Norma if she is returning to the screen, and she said: "I'll not make a picture until the war is over. I couldn't bear to be busy at a studio while Marty is on leave."

HAVE YOU HEARD about the newest script grab in Hollywood, with every major studio buying up anything at all that has to do with the invasion—and did you know that one outfit is even dickering for the rights to a 16-line poem? . . . Are you aware that Allan Jones and Irene Hervey will adopt an 11-year-old Maltese boy this week—on recommended by Mrs. F. D. R. through the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children?

HAVE YOU learned about the G. I. Sinatra, Sgt. Johnnie Desmond, who sings with the Glenn Miller outfit via V-discs, and even has a fan club at Anzio? . . . Do you know that the delegates to the Chicago conventions had better go loaded with coin as well as political info—because the town is beginning to look and act like a gold rush village? . . . Wouldn't you like to buy the dozens and dozens of high-heeled shoes Billy Boze doesn't wear now that she's devoted to jockey Sammy Renick and low, low heels? . . . Do you know that Dorothy Lamour's husband is now a major? . . . Doesn't it amuse you to hear that lots of soldiers in the Pacific with time on their hands have learned to knit? And do you think they'll be sending sweaters to civilians before it's over? . . . Won't Lt. Bruce Cabot soon follow Clark Gable into civilian garb?

Star Shine By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, June 15—There is no business that hurts itself the way the movies do. I'm referring now, especially to trailers. You know what a trailer is. It is a film clip that is supposed to entice you and sell you on seeing the coming attraction at the theater.

Many trailers tell so much that they tell the complete story in digest form.

Then a couple of weeks later you go to another theater and the picture, of which you saw the trailer, is the attraction. You sit there knowing most of the dramatic highlights and climaxes. Every scene that the writer and director carefully prepare for is spoiled because you already know the outcome.

And why do you know the outcome? Because the people making the trailer were only interested in making what they believed to be an interesting or exciting trailer. They don't view the trailer in the position it should occupy: that of being merely a pictorial heralding of a future picture.

Another thing that trailers do is pan old pictures and past performances. Today's picture is always better than yesterday's picture. It can't be just as good or as entertaining; it is always better.

RALPH BELLAMY on the set of "Guest In The House" recalled a yarn about John L. Sullivan. At the turn of the century, when Sullivan was making a tour of the Continent and the British Isle, he met his old friend, Arthur Brisbane.

Sullivan told Brisbane that he had an appointment at Buckingham Palace to see Edward, Prince of Wales, who later became King Edward VII. Brisbane had been trying to get an interview with the Prince, but was unable to do so because then the press was not permitted to see the Royal Family.

Sullivan, however, suggested to Brisbane that he get himself a pair of fighting tights and accompany him to the Palace as "my trainer and sparring partner."

This is what Brisbane did, and attired in fighting togs he got one of the few interviews that Edward, Prince of Wales, ever gave. Incidentally, when the Prince of Wales saw the unpugilistic looking Brisbane, he remarked: "You don't look like much of a fighter. I believe I might do well with you myself."

Bellamy says that this sequence may be in the John L. Sullivan picture that Bing Crosby is producing.

Boston After Dark

THE STORY OF THE MAGICIAN and the parrot came to us from Payton Barber, the affable admiralty insurance broker whose sense of humor is whimsical and nice . . . It seems that the parrot and the magician were on the same vessel, and the parrot, having taken a stern dislike to the magician, kept interrupting his performance for the ship's company with the cry of "Faker!" . . . The magician nursed a beautiful hatred for the bird, and when fate cast them together in a lifeboat, as the sole survivors of the ship when it was torpedoed, the magician's good heart was all that prevented a murder . . . The days and nights passed and the uncongenial pair kept their distance, the parrot in the bow and the magician in the stern of the lifeboat.

BUT THE PARROT WAS BROODING through the long siege of a man and a bird in a boat against the elements . . . And he was frightened, because no longer did he interrupt the magician's musings with his former cry of "Faker" . . . Finally, after eight days and nights of watching for a rescue-craft, the parrot at last broke the silence . . . Fixing his beady but shifty eye on the magician, the parrot demanded: "All right, you old son of a witch, what did you do with the ship!" (That's the end of the story).

AND THE ONE ABOUT the three WACs, the three WAVES and the three SPARS in the country is getting chuckles . . . The way Frank Myers, the shipbuilder, tells it, the three WACs, the three WAVES and the three SPARS were stalled in the country and they had to appeal to a farmer to put them up for the night . . . The farmer's accommodations were limited, but he managed to stow the girls away so that they had a degree of comfort . . . And then came a sailor to the farm house, and the problem of lack of rooms was more acute . . . But the farmer solved that suitably, too . . . The next morning the three WACs came down for breakfast . . . They ordered coffee. Then the three WAVES came to breakfast . . . They ordered coffee . . . The three SPARS came for breakfast . . . They ordered coffee . . . Then came the sailor, and he ordered tea . . . The moral of the story is that nine out of ten prefer coffee.

DEANNA DURBIN'S FANS will be startled when they catch a first sight of the young star in "Christmas Holiday," her first dramatic picture . . . Deanna is shown in a fourth-rate night club, made up as a sleazy, unkempt and broken-down entertainer . . . But she is good in the role . . . Uncle Sam takes Richard Camp, who plays the excitable young father in "3 Is a Family," on June 26 . . . Camp is the character in the play who says: "My draft board is so unreasonable" . . . The line gets a solid laugh, but Actor Camp, who is 19, has never relished saying the line . . . He's anxious to make the Air Corps.

RECOMMENDED: Dolly Dawn at the Mayfair . . . Eleanor Bagley at the Satire Room (where a dance band will play soon for open air dancing) . . . Newsman Starts On Invasion Flight

William Randolph Hearst, Junior, in a series of four articles of which this is the second, describes his first mission as co-pilot on a B-26 Marauder bomber blasting enemy positions on the battlefields of France.

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, JUNIOR
(Publisher New York Journal-American)

AT A B-26 MARAUDER BASE IN ENGLAND, June 13—When told that I was privileged to fly as co-pilot with Lt. Cottingham in the immediate flight of B-26 Marauder bombers over the battlefields of France, I had got my wish, and I tried to summon an enthusiastic expression, but I don't know with what success.

"Go with him," Maj. Clayton Smith said, "and get your equipment."

We went to an adjoining room and there I looped a Mae West over my head and climbed into the bulky harness with a parachute strapped to my back.

Clayton appeared with a little leather furlined cap and a regular G. I. helmet.

"There will be a flak suit on the plane," he added.

BULLET PROOF VEST

The latter is like a bullet-proof vest, only bigger and bulkier. It slips over your head, coming down to the waist at the back and extending down between the legs in front. It weighs at least 60 pounds.

We had no time to lose so the three of us jumped into a jeep and were whisked around the perimeter of the runway of the field to where Lt. Paul Cottingham's plane was parked in one of the dispersal areas.

I can't begin to tell you the thoughts that passed through my mind.

I unquestionably was scared yet I wanted to go through with it. At the same time, I was fully aware of the possible consequences if we got hit in the bomb bay. That would be curtains.

If we were badly crippled we would have to bail out, and if I got down safely it meant either being taken prisoner or being parked somewhere in Germany for the duration or hide out until able to make contact with our own troops.

We were out at the plane now and other crew members were standing around waiting for us to get in.

There was another lieutenant and two sergeants, but there was no time for introductions so we climbed up through the hole just aft of the nose of the ship—the space where the tail wheel comes up when retracted.

Bombardier Lt. Thomas Shirley, of Louisville, La., also with 57 missions to his credit, got into the co-pilot's seat to help the pilot do the hundred and one things they have to do on these big ships preparatory to starting.

There is a little cabin the width of the plane aft of the cockpit.

NO LONGER SCARED

Here Radio Operator Sgt. W. A. Meister, of Fort Wayne, Ind., sat by his equipment, while Engineer Sgt. W. R. Charleston, of Jacksonville, Fla., leaned forward into the cockpit and helped with the business of getting the plane under way.

Over enemy territory he mans the top-turret. They each had been on 51 of these jaunts.

The tail gunner was already in his position. I didn't see or meet him until we got home.

The engines previously had been warmed up, so within two minutes after they both were running we were moving down the runway.

Now, believe it or not, I was no longer scared.

I don't know whether I forgot to be, or whether there was too much going on.

At any rate, it was just the same as taking off in any airplane I had ever flown in.

We taxied around the rest of the perimeter strip down to the end of the mile long runway.

There were six planes ahead of us—the lead flight—and as each one took off, the others would edge up a little bit.

Finally came our turn.

We got into position and then Paul gave both of the 2000 horsepower motors the gun.

With the bomb load we had, the ship weighed in the neighborhood of 40,000 pounds.

It hasnt got much of a wing spread and we were doing an indicated speed of 150 miles per hour before Paul lifted her gently off the runway.

For the next 20 minutes I knew we would just be circling around the field gaining altitude and getting into position, so I sat back in the radio compartment talking with Charleston, while Meister was fiddling with the radio.

When he learned this was my first mission he immediately took a rather paternal interest in me.

"BAIL OUT" INSTRUCTION

He gave me a set of earphones and showed me where to plug them in when I got up in the co-pilot's seat.

Then reassuredly he said, "Keep it tuned to the ship's intercommunication system and if you hear me say 'bale out' come back here into the bomb bay and bale out. Don't wait for anything."

Immediately behind our compartment was the bomb bay and access to it was through a little door.

"What about Meister?" I asked.

"Don't worry. By the time you get back here he will be out," he grinned.

He then helped me into my flak suit and showed me how by pulling a little string on the front it loosened some fastenings on either shoulder and the suit fell off.

They make them this way because with the parachute on, your motions are restricted enough, but with the flak suit on top of this, you can hardly move about in the cramped interior of the plane, so I took it off.

Scituate 786

John McGrath, father of the missing Frances McGrath, today asked the Boston American to publish the number of the telephone which has been installed at his Scituate home.

The number is Scituate 786.

The father said he hoped some person who could give him information about his missing girl would phone him. He appealed to all and added that perhaps somebody having information about the girl might be reluctant to go to the police.

2 Zoot-Suiters Sought As Purse Snatchers

Two youths, one of them a zoot-suiter, were sought today after separate handbag snatchings that netted $108 in the Back Bay and Roxbury.

The zoot-suiter, described as about 24, grabbed the pocketbook of Jane Owens, 28, near her home in St. Botolph st., Back Bay.

Another youth, about 20, took $94 along with the purse of Johanna Fowler as she neared her home in Washington st., Roxbury.

CONSTIPATION GONE WRITES INVENTOR!
"4 years' use convinces me nothing helps like KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN"
This true incident may bring new hope to constipation sufferers. Read this unsolicited letter!
"Some of my friends were talking about a laxative ad in the Post. I cut in and insisted there's nothing like ALL-BRAN—and told them how it has helped keep me out of a condition I was in 4 years ago. Then they told me the ad they were discussing was an ALL-BRAN ad—they told me I should have a medal for spreading the good news about ALL-BRAN — which had helped these friends too." W. J. McLaughlin, 605 2nd No. St., Camden, N. J.
Scientists say KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation—lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet—because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements. They work by helping the friendly colonic flora to fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative medicine — but a wholesome, gentle-acting, "regulating" food.
If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't cheer its welcome relief. Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Lost Girl

more than 40 letters, rushed to her cottage by Postmistress Ethyl Duffy, most of them from strangers. They included messages from writers in New York, New Jersey and all New England states.

One Rhode Island mother wrote she could well understand Mrs. McGrath's sorrow. Her own daughter had disappeared and never had been found.

SOME GIRLS RESTORED

Several women wrote Mrs. McGrath to take courage. Their daughters had vanished and left them ill with fear and anxiety but finally they had been found and restored to them, they related.

Scores of telephone messages pour into the McGrath summer home. Some of the callers offer suggestions as to the search, or advance theories, even possible clues.

Every time the phone rings or an emissary with mail arrives, Mrs. McGrath's heart is lifted with hope—but always, so far, her hopes have sunk again.

Her oldest daughter, Marilyn, 19, today returned to their permanent home in Richview st., Dorchester, to see what mail had arrived there.

She will remain for a while. The possibility that the answer to Frances' mysterious disappearance may be found in the Dorchester neighborhood, or will be supplied in a letter or telephone call to the house, still stands.

Police made a painstaking search last night of Dreamwold, the former Thomas Lawson estate, after a woman told them she heard screaming there Tuesday night.

The informant was Mrs. Marion Chase of North Scituate. She described the sound in such a manner authorities considered it might have been the scream of a terrorized child.

The Lawson estate, now broken up into large house lots, was gone over inch by inch, but it revealed no signs of a struggle or clue to the mysterious sound of anguish.

Searchers also went through the town's two cemeteries on the theory a maniac's cunning might prompt him to use them for cover. Again the hunt was unproductive.

State Police stopped automobiles entering the town by way of Front st., Scituate Harbor, to question occupants if they had been in the town Saturday night and whether they had heard or observed anything of a suspicious nature.

One of those interrogated was a red-haired truck driver. At least six residents have told police they noticed an eccentric stranger there Saturday night. A man of that description, red-haired, followed one group of boys and girls so obnoxiously one of the youths threatened to strike him.

CAR DRIVER SOUGHT

The truck driver established he had been at home, in another town, the night Frances McGrath disappeared.

An unidentified motorist, driver of a green sedan, was sought by police. A woman told them he had made advances to her the night before the McGrath child vanished. It occurred along the route Frances walked when she went to confession at St. Mary's of the Nativity Church, then to the drug store for an ice cream cone.

The woman said she had left the church and was on her way home, near by, when the driver pulled over to the sidewalk and spoke to her. When she saw he was a stranger she quickened her step. He drove a short distance, turned around and slowed as he neared again.

U. S. Fourth Division in the streets of Montebourg.

American artillery was shelling the road from Montebourg to Valognes, and the doughboys controlled the road from Quineville, on the coast, to Montebourg, but the town itself changed hands from hour to hour.

American airborn troops spearheaded fighting around Carentan and, besides pushing to the west, shoved the Germans back more than a mile south of the town.

Allied troops driving southward along the central sector of the front were engaged in heavy fighting around Caumont and Villers-Bocage, with the Allies in Caumont but the Germans back in Villers-Bocage after a counter-attack.

Allied fliers reported more movement on the roads behind the German lines last night than at any time since D-Day.

With the German counter attacks mounting in fury, there were indications Field Marshal Von Rundstedt had decided to draw off some of his reserves in other portions of France to meet the Allied thrusts.

Appearance of the Second German Panzer Division—best armored unit in the Germany army—indicated the Germans were making a supreme effort to seal off the Allied beachhead.

Engineers Dig-in 4 Landing Fields

By W. W. HERCHER

WITH U. S. NINTH AIR FORCE IN FRANCE, June 13 (delayed) (AP)—Sweating engineers of the Ninth Air Force, half of their number using guns and the other half shovels, have dug four landing fields out of the dusty soil of Normandy in the first week of invasion.

Several miles from the coast, where the German dead still sprawl and rifles bark, one landing strip is taking shape on the rolling countryside. While bulldozers uproot trees and the ground is chewed level by big graders, riflemen stand guard against snipers.

No aviation engineer travels alone, even in daylight. At night Germans infiltrate to potshot.

One French family found 12 Nazis in their house when they returned from a night in fox holes. When the family was refused admittance they called the Americans, who blew out the visitors with 37 mm cannon.

Beauty

Protection From Sun

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THE "TENDERSKIN" who stays in the sun too long without proper protection is a pitiable, red, raw sight . . . when she could be so lovely to look at if she only considered her way of living under the sun . . . and took the necessary precautions. A noted beauty authority has created several protective creams against the sun . . . and for a deep bronze suntan.

SUMMER SUN is hot . . . summer sun is revealing . . . so before you suntan understand your type and consider your way of living. Indiscriminate sun tanning is certainly not smart . . . nor are its results pretty. And so . . . a noted beauty authority advises us . . . before you decide to acquire a deep tan . . . think a moment about the exact hours you will be out in the sunshine.

If you are a business girl or woman and your "two weeks with pay" and week-ends will be your outdoors time . . . you must not even ATTEMPT a deep bronze suntan. Your color will be a cafe-au-lait . . . gently, slowly acquired. And so, we recommend for you a sun proof cream . . . a cream that helps to filter out the burning rays of the sun . . . and when regularly applied . . . allows a smooth, lovely tan.

If you are the type that freckles or just gets a raw, red color . . . or if suntan is not becoming to you . . . (and there are some gals who look their loveliest with a natural light complexion) . . . then by all means protect . . . protect . . . PROTECT your skin against any sunburn. A protective cream . . . especially created for you . . . and which should be used from top to toe . . . comes in five shades and may be used as powder foundation, too.

ONLY SMOOTH BRONZE WORTH HAVING

If you plan to spend the entire summer out doors and under the sun . . . you and only you should plan to acquire a deep bronze tan. But please remember a smooth bronze is the only bronze worth having. Weather beaten, freckled and dark, dry skin looks drabber than drab . . . definitely not bright. And, if you want to keep this smooth, even tone . . . be sure to smooth on your skin each time you are under the sun . . . a special preparation . . . a sports jelly that is a honey . . . for it lets the sun through but keeps the skin smooth.

Be wise and sensible and thoughtful about the sun . . . for it can be too much of a good thing . . . and when done to excess the consequences are anything but good. These preparations are famous-name specialties . . . created for your type and your way of living . . . so decide which protective cream will be your cream for the summer sun.

For the names of these summer sun specialties, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Wednesday—I have just finished reading Mr. David Lilienthal's book, "T. V. A. Democracy on the March." I like particularly the way it points up the development of a river and the area surrounding it as a whole.

All of the resources are developed in unison for the benefit of all people in the region. The river provides power but not at the expense of navigation or flood control.

I saw with my own eyes, over a period of years, the change that came about through the control of soil erosion and the improvement of the productivity of the soil, in the actual well-being of the people. Their homes which I had seen unpainted and the clothing which I had seen reduced to a minimum, were beginning to improve as the soil improved.

I am quite sure that this same pattern can be followed in other regions throughout our nation in the days to come, and may be made useful to the people of India, China, Africa, and South and Central America.

TO FOLLOW the whole pattern may require a change in our thinking. Instead of thinking narrowly about one specific objective, we must think about the people of a whole region. With that goal in mind, we will do a bigger job which will affect more people; then, we really will see democracy on the march.

I often think that Sen. Norris, in looking back over his long and useful life, must feel that in backing this pattern of development he has made a contribution to the well being of the world. He will stand out in future history as one of our statesmen, not only with vision and imagination but with great humanitarian achievement to his credit.

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON, I had the pleasure of entertaining at tea a number of high naval officers from the New York area who came to talk over with Mr. John Golden the prizes which he has offered for plays written by Navy personnel. The Army plays for which he gave prizes were a great success, and I gather that he is also very proud and much interested in the plays he has received in the current contest.

In the evening, we went to see "Carmen Jones," which we all enjoyed very much, and Miss Thompson and I took the midnight train back to Washington.

Onions in Limelight

Onions are still so much in the limelight, after the long spell without them this winter, that we feel called upon to say some more about them. And to our aid comes a report from the War Food Administration which acts as a "refresher."

Raw and cooked, onions combine well with other vegetables and with meat, fish, eggs, cheese, dried beans and peas, the report reminds us. And as our most popular seasoner, they add to the flavor of soups, chowders, creamed and scalloped dishes of all kinds.

Chopped raw onions or onion rings have a place in most salad combinations. Onion juice or chopped raw onions improve the flavor of many sandwich fillings. Whole or sliced onions are especially good in a meat and vegetable stew or pie.

Following are some ways to serve onions:

As a Main Dish:

Onion Omelet
Liver and Onions
Hamburger and Onions
Chop Suey
Scalloped Onions and Peanuts
Baked Stuffed Onions

In Soups (alone or combined with other vegetables):

Onion Soup
Cream of Onion and Potato Soup
Onion and Split Pea Soup

(These soups make good main dishes for lunch or supper meals.)

As a Vegetable Dish (alone or combined with other vegetables to supplement meat, fish, eggs or other protein foods):

Boiled Onions—whole or sliced; buttered or creamed.
Panned or Stewed Onions—with meat drippings or cream sauce.
Fried Onions.
French Fried Onion Rings.
Stewed or Scalloped Onions and Tomatoes.
Smothered Onions and Potatoes or Carrots.
Onion Cups with Peas or other vegetables.

ONION SOUP

Cook 2 cups finely chopped onions in 2 tbsp. fat until lightly brown. Sprinkle with 3 tbsp. of flour and stir. Add 1½ quarts hot meat broth, made by cooking a soup bone in water, and stir until smooth. Season with salt and pepper and simmer until the onions are tender and flavor well blended. Serve in bowls with a slice of toast in each. A little dry cheese may be grated over the toast. Makes 6 servings.

FRENCH FRIED ONION RINGS

Peel and cut onions in ¼ inch slices and separate into circles. Salt and pepper. Soak in milk to cover and drain, then dip into flour or bread crumbs. Fry in hot fat until a golden brown. Shake onto a sheet of paper to absorb any fat.

BAKED STUFFED ONIONS

Peel and boil large onions cut in half until tender, but not soft. Drain and scoop out the centers, leaving the outside rings as shells to stuff. Chop the centers, add an equal quantity of soft bread crumbs and chopped parsley or celery leaves. Season with salt, pepper and fat and put back in the shells. Bake covered until the onions are tender, then uncover and brown on top. Chopped peanuts, chopped bacon or small amounts of sausage or other chopped meat may be added to the stuffing.

ONION CUPS WITH PEAS

Peel and boil onions. Remove centers and chop. Heat peas (canned or fresh cooked) and chopped onions together. Season with salt and pepper and a little fat. Fill hot onion cups. Diced carrots or diced mixed vegetables may be used instead of peas.

Present for Army Hostess

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: I am engaged to a lieutenant in the Army, and the wife of his closest friend at his camp (I have never met her) has written me inviting me to come to visit at her home. I have accepted . . . of course . . . and am wondering if I should take her a present.. B. S.

Yes! Since you don't know her tastes, you might take her a more or less impersonal gift. And I also think that, since hers is such special hospitality, you should also send her a gift when you write her your bread-and-butter letter. Keep your eyes open while you are visiting her to discover a present that you will then know will be particularly welcome to her personally, or in her home.

Never Neglect Leg Art

By BETTINA BEDWELL

SUMMER heat is very tough on the looks of legs. And every girl ought to practice leg artistry during the hot months.

Leg make-up can look fine, and then again it can look downright repulsive, if you haven't got it put on with perfection. Stockings are safer for the multitudes whose legs aren't as youthful, slim and pretty as they once were. Sheer stockings can do wonders to help.

But if your stockings are soiled, or unshapely, particularly on a very hot day, the whole effect of your costume is going to be not so good. Since rayon hose are what most of us have to wear, we should have enough pairs to keep them always fresh, and this means at least three in constant use and rotation, permit plenty of drying time. Another thing, careful about the color of stockings you wear, should be a shade that blends nicely with your skin coloring.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

SOCIAL HINT—If your hostess does not know your companion, introduce her and the hostess will then make other introductions. It is bad form to usurp the hostess' place in this unless she is very busy and says, "Do see that Mrs. Brown meets everyone, won't you?"

Belgium Fete Today

CAROL "KAKI" BAYNE, one of last winter's pretty and capable debs, would love to go overseas like her sister Patricia who is a Red Cross staff assistant in England, but of course she isn't old enough.

In the meantime she's as busy as a bee on the home front working as a volunteer in the office of Mass. General Hospital and giving much of her time to the British War Relief Society of which her mother is a guiding light.

Yesterday she ushered at the BWRS Dutch treat luncheon in the Copley Plaza ballroom, a highly successful affair attended by 700 women who run BWRS workshops throughout the state. Speakers included the author of that famous war story, "H. M. Corvette," Lt. Comdr. Nicholas Monsarrat, and snatches of the movie made from the book were shown after lunch.

Post deb Freddie Sargent of Brookline and Olive Van Dyke of Milwaukee, a guest of Mrs. A. N. Carruthers, also ushered. Glimpsed helping themselves to seafood newburgh, green salad, apple pie and coffee at the buffet were Mrs. Bartlett Harwood, a gay half hat of yellow daisies topping her gray print; Mrs. William Bayne in modish black with white, Mrs. Richard Wood, Mrs. John Kennedy in a gay print with kelly green hat and big red pocketbook; Mrs. Christopher Hammersley, wife of a British liaison officer, a pink feather beanie complementing her navy and pink dress; and Mrs. Walter Snyder in a foursome with her daughter, Miss Ella-May Snyder, Mrs. Edward Gillespie and Mrs. Eugene Williams.

At the entrance two attractive young BWRS workers, Mrs. Robert Bainbridge (Mary Hastings) and Mrs. William V. McDermott, Jr., (Blanche O'Riordan) sold compacts, cook books and other souvenirs to benefit the society.

ROUND AND ABOUT: There's one candle on the cake at the first birthday party of Friends of Belgium today. Mrs. J. G. Schmid of Wellesley is chairman of the Boston branch, with Misses Caroline Holt and Florence Risley among her assistants. The Friends were organized a year ago to make and collect clothing so that after liberation Belgians may have clean fresh apparel to replace the tattered rags they now wear.

A musical pageant, "Let Freedom Ring," featuring forbidden songs of the underground in 11 invaded countries, will be given in Symphony Hall Sunday evening under auspices of United Nations Ass'ns. Attending will be representatives of local relief groups, including Arthur Hartts, Richard Hobarts, Mrs. William Ripley, Mrs. Jacobus Langendoen, whose husband wrote the music for the United Nations Anthem; Elizabeth Driver, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Markell and many more.

FREDERICA SARGENT—Aids British War Relief Society.

Volunteers at MGH who help in wards, clinics and other drastically undermanned departments of the hospital, will get together for the annual volunteers' picnic in the yard of Bulfinch Bldg. next Thursday. The group includes hundreds of prominent socialites.

Laughs, suspense and action are neatly packed into Monogram's newest East Side Kids film, "Follow the Leader," now at the Trans-Lux. Landlord Boosts Stork Prize

CLEVELAND, June 15 (AP)—Henry Solomon, landlord who rewards tenants visited by the stork, has raised the ante since the start of the war loan drive and made the baby bonus a $25 war bond.

Originally he gave each family $5 in gold and when the United States went off gold payments were in silver.

Under Solomon's plan a second child in the same family would receive a $50 war bond, a third a $100 bond, and so on.

The landlord has paid off 54 times in 17 years and has prepared for the unusual by taking out insurance with Lloyds, payable if any tenant has quintuplets.

Lists 14 AEF Death Sentences in Britain

LONDON, June 15 (AP)—Herbert Morrison, secretary of state for home affairs, told Commons today 14 members of the United States armed forces in the United Kingdom had been sentenced to death by U. S. courts-martial and seven of the sentences had been carried out.

Proposes Priority On Domestic Service

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—Women in war work would get first chance to hire domestic help under a suggestion advanced to cut down absenteeism and turnover among female employes in war plants.

The women's advisory committee of the War Manpower Commission also recommended today that housewives forego the "luxury" of a full-time maid and share her services with "one or more" women in industry.

Newburyport JVA Unit Pushes Paper Drive

Another corps has quickened its pace in the salvage of waste paper as a result of Uncle Sam's renewed appeal for all Junior Victory Army boys and girls to concentrate on gathering America's No. 1 critical material.

This corps is the "Fighting Bulldogs" of Newburyport, commanded by Leslie Harris and captained by Gene Haley. The unit has collected 50 pounds of scrap paper.

There are eight members in the corps. Norman Cleveland was cited for his good work in gathering scrap paper and in building a clubhouse for the corps. Carroll Harris is adult sponsor.

JVA patriots throughout New England have been urged to join this new crusade.

Collection of waste paper will back up the invasion of France and the battles of our servicemen in other parts of the world. Uncle Sam's war production is dependent on paper. Tons of blueprints, communications and directives are used by the Army and Navy. In addition paper is needed to make containers for ammunition, medicines and food.

It's up to the JVA to help collect the 600,000 tons of paper required to keep our mills running at peak production every month.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Friday's Daily Record.

Million Is Bet With 'Book' at N.Y. Track

By JACK CONWAY

MAX KASE, sports editor of the New York Journal, wishes that Charley Mungie and his associates in the circulation department of this newspaper would toss more dinners to Charley Brickel, who is leaving Boston after 31 years in the newspaper business to become associated with his son, Manuel, in a newspaper agency at Bangor, Me. Max had a little time to kill as he waited for the dinner, and, being an oldtime victim of the mutuel machines, dropped over to Suffolk Downs where he won a little fresh spinach betting on Winning Bid, Colonel Don, Sophocles, Flying Silver and other horses that finished in the money.

Max didn't ask Frank Ryan or Bruce Wetmore how long this has been going on as he knows that picking winners at the track is a hard way to make an easy living.

Max Kase

"Is there any limit to what they will bet at a New York track?" I asked Max who at one time was associated with this newspaper.

"It doesn't look as if there is," he replied. "When they bet $3,000,000 through the machines at Belmont Park, there is another million wagered with the bookmakers who operate quite openly at the track. Governor Dewey for a time warred on the bookmakers, but the crusade has cooled off and business is as usual.

"The bookmakers operate without interference. They even mark down the amounts of their bets.

"One former bookmaker told me that in the old days at Saratoga he handled as much as a million dollars on a Saturday. It would take him until Monday morning to get his sheets contalning the various bets straightened out.

Tip on Belmont Horse

"This bookmaker told me that August Belmont never wagered, but that Mrs. Belmont would occasionally bet from $2 to $25 on a horse. One day Mrs. Belmont made three or four $2 bets and a $25 wager on a Belmont owned horse.

"This was enough of a tip for the bookmaker who wagered $3000 with a rival 'book' on the Belmont horse which won at a big price. The bookmaker told me this was the best tip he ever got at a track.

"I have seen this bookmaker make bets of $100 on recent races. He says that with pari-mutuel betting there are not so many big betters as there were years ago. The take at the mutuels is too much for persons who used to like to back their judgment on a horse with sums of from $10,000 to $50,000. In the machines, the big betters feel they are wagering against themselves."

Kase told Bruce Wetmore that New York is going to have a race track at Flushing, Long Island, which will accommodate 100,000 persons.

"The proposed track will have great financial backing," said Kase. "It will give the public the best racing and also an excellent clubhouse and grandstand. I do not believe the ceiling has yet been reached in racing."

"I believe a track that will care for 100,000 persons will be too large," asserted Wetmore. "There is a limit to even what racing can stand.

"I don't agree with you," replied Kase. "New York has 500,000 visitors a day in addition to its regular population, and on Saturdays and on holidays it will fill such a track if the proper type of races are offered."

Likes N. E. Tracks

KASE TOLD me that the New England tracks, Suffolk Downs, Rockingham Park and Narragansett Park, give the public much more for their money than racegoers get in New York.

"The clubhouse tickets in New York top $4," said Max, "while it costs $1.65 for a grandstand ticket. At $1 for the clubhouse and 50 cents for the grandstand the New England tracks put big shows on at reasonable prices. One is not pushed around as much at the New England tracks as in New York. The new 100,000 capacity track in New York will help eliminate some of the present difficulties.

"Jack Dempsey had a good idea to stage boxing shows to aid bond drives," said Max, "but it was not acted upon in time. Most of the good boxers are now in service, and there will not be a great deal of top boxing until we have won the war."

Hanlon Says Trust To Retain Downs

Gordon B. Hanlon, president of Suffolk Downs and head of the Aldred Investment Trust, which controls it, testified in Federal Court today that he had no intention of liquidating the track at the end of the current meeting and that it was a highly profitable enterprise.

Defending himself against a stockholder's suit for his removal and appointment of a receiver for the Trust, Hanlon declared that at the end of the fiscal year next March, the Trust would have assets of $3,000,000 in cash and bonds.

He declared the track would still be a part of the Trust's assets at the end of the fiscal year and after persistent prodding said it was "very, very profitable" and would continue to be so long as racing was permitted.

Bill De Correvont Marries Classmate

CHICAGO, June 15 (AP)—Bill de Correvont, who a few years ago was one of the nation's outstanding high school football players and later was a star halfback at Northwestern University, was married yesterday.

De Correvont, a chief petty officer in the Navy and stationed at Norfolk, Va., was married to Miss Dorothy Lagorio, a high school classmate.

Sox Hill Staff Improves

By BILL GRIMES

With eight straight wins behind them, the Red Sox wound up their short home stay today with a single game against the Athletics at Fenway Park. In the seven games they've played at Fenway Park, since returning from their first western trip, the Red Sox have used only nine pitchers. I nthe Yankee series, George Woods was relieved by Mike Ryba, who went on to win. Yesterday, Frank Barrett, the latest acquisition to the Red Sox pitching corps, took over for Emmet O'Neill and turned in a well deserved victory.

Barrett is an iron man, according to his record with the Columbus Red Birds. In the event that Barrett proves as effective in the future as he was against the A's, Manager Cronin may decide to give Ryba a few starting assignments.

During the seven and two-thirds innings he was in action yesterday, Barrett gave many indications that he knows how to pitch.

Along with pitching a smart brand of ball, Barrett was very alert on the mound, displaying some real baseball instinct.

George Woods showed a reversal of form in the second game yesterday after a shaky start. In the first inning he walked three men, but then he got his control and gave up only five hits, allowing only two men to reach second base in eight innings and was credited with a shut-out.

The Red Sox will make the trip to Washington in starts and stops . . . They will leave for New York tonight from the South Station at 7 o'clock, spend the night at the Commodore and continue on to Washington tomorrow for a night game.

As was to be expected, Emmett O'Neill didn't last long . . . He blew wide open in the second . . . . . Joe Cronin is playing with a bad foot, which he has treated before every game . . . Frankie Kelly, who is the bat boy for the visiting clubs at Fenway Park, is not only a hustler but he knows his job . . . And, he is far better than the average kid ball player, especially with the bat.

JOHNSON SPEARS BALL

Bob Johnson came up with a grand backhand glove catch off Dick Siebert in the third . . . It looked as though the "blooper" was going to drop safe but Bob raced over and speared it . . . Jim Tabor has been ready to return to the lineup for some days but Jimmy Bucher has been going so well that Manager Cronin is perfectly satisfied with the set-up . . . Jim Tabor has played many, many games for the Red Sox when he was below par physically . . . So he is entitled to a layoff.

Chief "Seventy" Powers has his "S. P." retrieving balls that are fouled into the stands.

On Dick Siebert's squeeze bunt which tied the score in the fifth, the Red Sox would have gotten one man if some had called the play, instead of allowing Cronin to throw to the plate . . . Hamlin's error, a wild pitch and a single by Bob Johnson gave the Red Sox their fifth run . . . In the sixth the Red Sox made three successive hits, yet no runner got beyond first base . . . Cronin was out stealing, Partee who singled was hit by a batted ball, giving Newsome a hit . . . And there you have it. Luke Hamlin stopped George Metkovich, who had hit safely in 16 straight games.

Hal Epps, the former Brown, who didn't report until just before game time, was used as a pinch hitter in the opener . . .

Long Shot Wins Big Purse at Bay Meadows

SAN MATEO, Calif., June 15 (AP)—Taking the lead in a stretch drive, Valdina Gloss won the $5000 Lassie Handicap at Bay Meadows yesterday by a neck. Loma Mar Kate was second after setting most of the pace and Dowry third. The time for the five furlongs was 1:00 4-5.

The race was for two-year-old fillies. Grant Zufelt of Sigrid, Utah, rode the winner, weighted at 117 pounds.

Valdina Gloss paid $47.20, $18 and $5.10. Loma Mar Kate returned $8.50 and $3.70. Dowry and Greek Chorus coupled as an entry paid $2.40. The entry went postward as the favorite.

JOHNNY COONEY

Armstrong and Al Davis Clash

NEW YORK, June 15 (AP)—Two of boxing's top-flight "knock-erouters"—Henry Armstrong of Los Angeles and Al Davis of Brooklyn—meet tonight in a 10-rounder expected to entice 17,000 fans and $75,000 through Madison Square Garden portals.

Each has a kayo percentage of close to the .600 mark. Henry quit the ring after losing the last of his three titles, but returned in June, 1942, to participate in 39 bouts.

Dodgers Drop Cooney, Waner

BROOKLYN, June 15 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers released five players today and announced the resignation of Ed Staples, Pres. Branch Rickey's assistant.

Outfielders Lloyd Waner and John Cooney were given their unconditional releases and infielder Pat Ankenman was sold to Montreal of the International League. Rookie Pitcher Jack Franklin was shipped to Montreal on option and Infielder Gil English was returned to Indianapolis of the American Ass'n.

Staples, who was connected with the St. Louis Cardinals during the Rickey regime there, will become the executive director of the Missouri public expenditure survey, a taxpayers' association, at Jefferson City, Mo.

Collegiate Gridders To Play All-Stars

CHICAGO, June 15 (AP)—A select group of college football players and the Chicago Bears, the national grid league's champions, will meet in the 11th annual all-star game at Northwestern University's Dyche stadium on the night of Aug. 30.

All profits of the game will go to war charities.

DOING THEIR BIT TO HELP RED SOX CLIMB—Important in the current surge of the Red Sox are these three new faces. Clem Hauseman has proved his worth on the mound. Yesterday Frank "Red" Barrett, fresh from the Columbus, O., Red Birds, was sent in rather cold in a hot spot when he relieved Emmett O'Neill in the third with the bases loaded and one out. Red got himself out of the jam with minimum damage. Jimmy Bucher has been going so good at third that he's keeping Jim Tabor on the bench. Left to right in the above photograph, Clem Hauseman, Frank "Red" Barrett and Jimmy Bucher.

K. Winthrop Defends Title at Longwood

Mrs. Edward Ribbany headed the list of winners as the women's state tennis championship started yesterday at the Longwood Cricket Club. She scored an easy victory over Norma Meister, 6-1, 6-1. Kay Winthrop, the defending titleholder, was slated to start the bid for another title this morning against Helen Bryan.

The state matches for the most part were one-sided affairs, with the national intercollegiates providing the real fireworks of the day's program. Betty Rosenquist of Rollins College scored a win in the singles in a three-set struggle with Judy Atterbury of Wellesley, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3.

In the college doubles final Miss Atterbury gained her revenge as she paired with Norma Meister to defeat the singles champion and Lillian Loupas, in another three-set match, 3-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Holyoke Comes With Big Power

By MIKE GILLOOLY

HOLYOKE, June 15—Imagine the baseball team that can afford to have its lead-off batter hitting the ball in the vicinity of the .450 mark. Well, that's the problem that will be confronting Coach Jeff Jones of Newton High when he sends his Eastern State champions against the Western titlists, Holyoke, Saturday afternoon in the grand finale of the Schoolboy Writers' Ass'n tournament at Fenway Park.

It's partly a psychological move on the part of Coach Bill Sullivan of the Paper City nine, to have his catcher-pitcher, Joe Soskovic, top man in the batting order and as he explains it, this unusual lineup has paid dividends in 12 straight ball games.

"It gives the team a big lift to get off to a flying start and with Soskovic at the plate, we get that lift," expounds Coach Sullivan in a cool tone that offers a direct contrast to the excited, enthusiastic tempo of his coaching opponent, Mr. Jones of Newton. "With McMahon (Ed, the left fielder and catcher) as clean-up batter, we couldn't ask for more for scoring punch. McManus is a consistent batter with an even better average than Soskovic.

"I don't know much about Newton but we've got a good ball team."

Soskovic will be Holyoke's pitching choice Saturday as he makes his third appearance of the series as a twirler. In the opening game against Ludlow, Soskovic took over in a relief role, then followed this up with a 10-inning blanking of Westfield for a 1-0 triumph. A blinding right-hander, Soskovic will be lightning the ball into McMahon who'll be making his usual shift behind the plate from the outfield.

McMahon's place in the gardens will be taken over by Ned Barry, a clever ground coverer who's been able to compile a batting average of "only" .333. He'll be playing the greens with George Dean (.272) and Ed Senay (.322). So you can readily see from batting averages that Holyoke is anything but a one-man ball team wrapped up in the efforts of Soskovic, who, incidentally is under the wing of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The infield is fast, smooth and clever. Paul Kennedy at short and Earl Lyons at second form a slick combination around the keystone sack. Kennedy has proven strong enough at the plate to take over the No. 5 batting slot. Bill Kane, at first, and Al Lally, at third, complete the starting lineup.

Caseys Depend On Don Donald

Don Donald will be Manager Dick Casey's nominee to increase the Casey Club's lead in the Park Department baseball league as he takes the hill against the fourth place Linehan Club at Columbus Park, South Boston, tonight.

The Navy Yard nine, from whom the Casey Club took the league leadership, will endeavor to remain in the race as they tangle with the rejuvenated Lawley's Shipyard team at Garvey Field in the second tilt of a home and home series. The Navy nine took the opening affair but Manager Hal Crosby of Lawley's will call on his ace hurler, Norm Smith, a husky six-footer, to take the night cap. McLaughlin will assume the mound duties for the Navy Yard.

Billings Field will be the scene of the Watertown Arsenal-West Roxbury skirmish where the gunmakers will depend on Lou Streecker to oppose Lou Tessier, West Roxbury hurler. The remaining game on the docket will find the Trailways playing host to Hicks Engineering at Cleveland Circle. Bill Swenson is the mound choice for the Engineers.

Boston Trawler Shelled by Sub

With hull and rigging splintered and torn by shells and machine-gun bullets, the Boston trawler Lark returns to port after undergoing an hour of horror in which it was attacked by a "large and gray" submarine somewhere in the North Atlantic. The crew had taken to dories when the shelling began about 2 a. m., one morning recently. Some of the crew members claimed they saw swastika markings on one of the spent slugs.
